Sunday Readings

The Lamb of God

First Reading

The glory of the Lord shows through Israel, a light to all nations, that salvation may reach to the ends of the earth (Isaiah 49:3, 5-6).

This introduction to the season of Ordinary Time from the Prophet Isaiah makes for a wonderful transition from the Advent season. The prophet who foretold the coming of Emmanuel has a word for us concerning the significance and aim of God's dwelling among us.

In this passage, God renews through Isaiah the promise of his universal salvific will. Throughout the history of God's people— whether that term is intended to refer to the kingdom of Israel or the new Israel, which is the Church—there's been a tendency to forget that God gives us what he gives us not merely to favor us, but to make us instruments in his universal plan. God created all and he intends to save all.

It's just as easy for us to think that God's will stops at the church door as it was for the Israelites to think that his dominion was exercised solely within the boundaries of geographical Israel. But that wasn't the faith of Israel nor is it our faith. From the time of Adam, the time of Noah, and even from the time of Abraham when God began the process of forming a particular people to be "a light to the nations," he has always had his eye on "the nations."

Second Reading

All those who call upon the name of the Lord are called to be holy (1 Corinthians 1:1-3).

Again, as was the case in the second reading for the Fourth Sunday of Advent, we have an opening greeting, a salutation from one of St. Paul's epistles or letters. That seems somehow appropriate to the beginning of Ordinary Time. And Paul's reminder of what he is, "an apostle of Jesus Christ," is a fit reminder of what we're called to be.

The word "apostle" in Greek means "one sent forth." The Greek term is used in John 17:3, where Jesus declares his mission from the Father. And the same term is used throughout the New Testament in reference to those sent by the ancient churches to spread the Gospel. Paul describes the Corinthians to whom he writes as those "who have been sanctified in Christ Jesus and called to be a holy." As we begin that part of the liturgical cycle that we call ordinary time, we do well to remember that part of our vocation as God's holy people is to be sent to all those who, wherever they may be, fall within the ambit of God's loving, saving will. That, of course, includes the whole of the human family.

Gospel

John the Baptist testifies: The one who comes after me, on whom the Spirit comes down and remains, is the Son of God (John 1:29-34).

In this passage, we're told that John identified Jesus as the "Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world." Commentators suggest that this might be an allusion to the

and Meditation

Passover lamb consumed by the Jews as a commemoration of the Exodus event, to the prophetic witness in regard to the “suffering servant of Yahweh,” to the symbolic representation of a horned lamb that’s made for some of the heroes of Israel, or to the twice daily sacrifice of a lamb in the temple of Jerusalem. John the Baptist unites all of these symbolically when he recognizes Jesus as the “Lamb of God.” The Jews considered the offering of Isaac by Abraham to be a pivotal event in salvation history. Rather than requiring the sacrifice of Isaac, God sent an angel to Abraham to point out a ram (an adult male sheep caught by his horns in a thicket to offer instead.

This would be consistent with the Christian notion, prominent in the Liturgy of the Triduum, that Isaac is a symbolic foreshadowing of Jesus who is the beloved Son of God, just as Isaac was the beloved son of Abraham. At the end of our passage from John’s Gospel, John the Baptist, after calling Jesus the Lamb of God, also identifies him as “the Son of God.”

Meditation

Imagine you are standing on the banks of the Jordan River, watching John baptize the crowds. All of a sudden, you see him looking at a man who is approaching. John cries out, “Behold the Lamb of God, who takes away the sins of the world!” What do you think when you hear those words? Now move forward in time and imagine that John asks you to follow this man, Jesus, no matter where he goes or what he asks of you. Are you ready to make that commitment? Are you ready to follow the Lamb?

Prayer to St Michael

St. Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle. Be our protection against the wickedness and snares of the Devil. May God rebuke him, we humbly pray, and do thou, O Prince of the heavenly hosts, by the divine power of God, cast into hell satan, and all the evil spirits, who roam through out the world seeking the ruin of souls. Amen.

Prayers & Devotion

Agnus Dei

Agnus Dei, which means “Lamb of God,” is said during the Mass when the Host is broken. It comes from a Syrian custom and was first used in the Roman Rite Mass by Pope Sergius I (687–701).

The Latin text is:

Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi, miserere nobis.
Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi, miserere nobis.
Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi, dona nobis pacem.

English Translation:

Lamb of God, you who take away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us.
Lamb of God, you who take away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us.
Lamb of God, you who take away the sins of the world, grant us peace.

The Lamb Takes Away Sins

Do you truly believe that Jesus has come to take your sins away? If there is something in your past for which you are ashamed, confess it now, in the silence of your heart, and ask the Lamb to remove it from you. As soon as you are able, go to Confession. If nothing immediately comes to mind, spend time in prayer asking the Lamb to protect you from all temptation.

Confession on Saturdays in the church is after the 8:30 am Mass, at 3:45 pm and at 6:15 pm in Spanish. Confession is also available in the Convent Chapel every 1st and 3rd Wednesday at 2:30 pm.

God wastes nothing—not even sin. The soul that has struggled and come through is enriched by its experiences, and Grace does not merely blot out the evil past but in the most literal sense ‘makes it good.’

—Dorothy Sayers

News

Update from the Business Manager, Eric Hom

It's been a busy first couple of weeks for me at St. Michael's, but I want to again express my sincere gratitude to everyone in the parish including all the staff for the warm welcome that I've received. Over the past week, I've had the opportunity to spend time individually with almost everyone on staff and my time with everyone further validates God's call and plan for me to be here and joyfully do God's work at St. Michael's with all of you.

This weekend, January 14th and 15th. I will be outside after each Mass in the breezeway to meet as many of our Parishioners as I can. I invite you to come say hi, as I would love to meet you and your families.

I'm extremely excited and encouraged for what lies ahead for this wonderful community as TOGETHER we will Celebrate the Sacraments, Grow Disciples and Bring Christ to People. May God continue to bless you and your family.

Challenges of the Week

- 1. Everywhere we turn, we can find people who claim to have the answer. In this week's reading, John the Baptist tells us that there is only One who has the answer—Jesus. Take some time this week to examine your heart and determine where you are listening to the voices of the world and where you are listening to the Word of the Lord.
- 2. John the Baptist understood that his role was to bring others to Christ. How can you, by your life, show to those who do not believe in Jesus that he is truly the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world? Find one way this week to be a living witness to that reality.
- 3. The next time you attend Mass, pay special attention to the Agnus Dei. As you say the words, reflect on what it truly means to proclaim Jesus as the One who takes away the sins of the world.
